

PAGE 80

■ Where is:

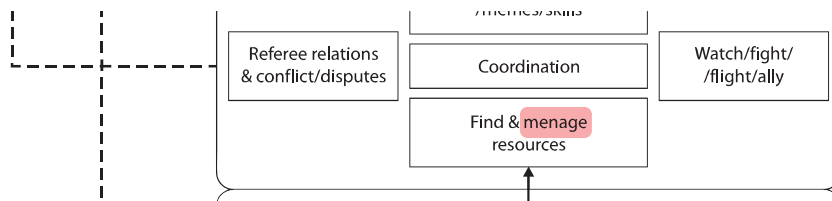

First, our species is highly altricial where human beings are born with a «program opening» (Maynard, 1999). The group we are born into and which we depend on «partially fulfils this same opening» in

Should be:

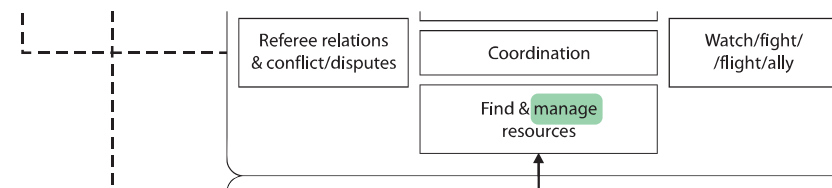

First, our species is highly altricial where human beings are born with a «program opening» (Mayr, 1974). The group we are born into and which we depend on «partially fulfils this same opening» in our

PAGE 91

■ Where is:

Should be:

PAGE 117

■ Where is:

In summary, the literature suggests that there are at least eight common practices from an evolutionary point of view that allow building, reinforcing, expanding, and rebuilding trust in relationships, especially the leader's relationship with the group (Table 5).

Should be:

In summary, the literature suggests that there are at least seven common practices from an evolutionary point of view that allow building, reinforcing, expanding, and rebuilding trust in relationships, especially the leader's relationship with the group (Table 5).